

Memorial Grove Ceremony
Honoring former Forest Service Employees
2023

Welcome and Introduction

Welcome to the 2023 Memorial Grove honoree ceremony. This is the hundred and second year that planting has been done here at this site to honor Rocky Mountain Region employees who have served the Region in many different roles and have given so much of their passion, expertise, and commitment to “Caring for the Land and Serving the People”. This sustained tradition of recognizing those who have given so much over the last hundred years would not be possible without the support of the people in the Rocky Mountain Region over the years, especially the folks on the Pikes Peak District, and those who have continued to care greatly for the Forest Service and its legacy even after retirement. We dedicate this special ceremony to all the families of each and every one of the special people we recognize today. They symbolize the dedication, the professionalism, and outstanding public service that have made the Forest Service one of the best organizations in the country. This is who we are. Today we honor not only those who have left us in the last year and those we have “not forgotten,” but in a sense we also recognize all those who have given so much over the last hundred years.

America the Beautiful

O beautiful for spacious skies
For amber waves of grain
For purple mountain majesties
Above the fruited plain!
America! America!
God shed his grace on thee
And crown thy good with brotherhood
From sea to shining sea!

What is Memorial Grove?

The Memorial Grove was established in 1920 to honor Rocky Mountain Region soldiers killed in WW1. The next year a memorial ceremony was held on May 29, 1921, at the Grove and 30 trees were planted to recognize not only the five soldiers who died during World War I but also for other Forest Service employees who had died while officially with the Service. The original Grove had a memorial tree named, mapped and planted for each of the employees who had lost their lives.

The Grove is located on the grounds of the old Monument Tree Nursery, now the Monument Fire Center on the Pikes Peak District of the Pike and San Isabel National Forest. The Memorial Grove was established by using transplanted Englemann spruce, blue spruce and Douglas-fir trees from the Fremont Experimental Forest on nearby Pikes Peak.

Today's Memorial Grove continues to recognize and celebrate the careers, dedication and contributions of all those Rocky Mountain Region employees who have died and left their legacies for future generations to help manage the National Forests and Grasslands of the Rocky Mountain Region. The Memorial Grove ceremony also offers a special time and place to honor family members and friends of Forest Service employees for their critical support and personal sacrifices that contributed to the success of their loved and honored ones and the mission of the USDA-Forest Service.

After the Berry Fire in 1989, which partially burned a part of the Grove, it was decided a fitting monument with individual name plaques, attached annually, would be an appropriate replacement to honor past employees. One young tree continues to be added each year to the Grove to commemorate all honorees of the year, and to maintain a living memorial to those who personally served the Rocky Mountain Region and their country.

Since 1995, a memorial ceremony has been conducted on the first Saturday in May to highlight and reflect on those special employees who helped make the Rocky Mountain Region a special place to live, work and raise families. Substantial work has been done on the Memorial Grove site to make it unique setting for solitude and reflection.

The awareness of the Grove and its role in maintaining the special character and history of the Rocky Mountain Region continues to grow. Current and retired employees of the Region, the Pikes Peak Ranger District, and the Rocky Mountaineers sponsor the dedication ceremony, and deeply appreciate the support and financial contributions of employees, family and friends to maintain this very special setting and the memories it provides.

The family lived in Pierre until 1936, when they moved to a suburb of Los Angeles, CA. It was here that Elaine developed the traits of independence and self-reliance that were to remain with her throughout her life. As told by her mother, Elaine would occasionally take public transportation to the beach at Santa Monica by herself, spend the day, and return home at supper time.

In April 1942, the family moved back to SD, settling in Custer and renting a small log cabin near the former elementary school. That first year Elaine attended seventh grade in town, but when the family moved to a six-acre tract south of town she walked the two miles to rural Evergreen school for eighth grade.
